Dr. Nelida Fuccaro is a historian of the modern Middle East with an interest in interdisciplinary and cross-regional approaches to the study of the region. Her research has focused on the Arab States of the Persian Gulf, Iraq and Syria with particular reference to the social and cultural history of oil, urban history, violence, ethnicity, nationalism and frontier societies. She is the author of The Other Kurds: Yazidis in Colonial Iraq (London: IB

Tauris, 1999), Histories of City and State in the Persian Gulf: Manama since 1800 (Cambridge University Press, 2009, paperback 2011), the guest editor of the thematic contribution 'Histories of Oil and Urban Modernity in the Middle East' in Comparative Studies in South Asia, Africa and the Middle East (2013), and the editor of Violence and the City in the Modern Middle East (Stanford University Press, 2016).
